Was Whitman Doped?

Pills Found On Slayer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — An autopsy report today is expected to show whether Charles J. Whitman was under the influence of drugs when he killed 15 persons and wounded 31 others before police bullets cut him down.

Justice of the Peace Jerry Dellana said he had instructed pathologists making the autopsy to search for dexedrine in Whitman's blood. Dellana said such pills — goof balls — were found in Whitman's clothing after he was shot by Austin police Monday, on the 28th-floor observation tower of the University of Texas main building.

From his lofty sniper's nest, Whitman, 25, killed 13 persons with a murderous spray of rifle fire. Earlier he had shot and stabbed his mother to death and fatally knifed his young wife, Kathy, as she slept in their bed, police said.

Dellana said Whitman's appearance after the shooting made imperative the autopsy search for possible drug-influenced behavior.

Seek Crime Deterrent
Gov. John B. Connally, hunting for a deterrent to "heinous crimes," moved forward in his quest for laws that might prevent such slaughter as Whitman perpetrated here Monday.

Whitman's body, along with that of his mother, was flown Wednesday night to Lake Worth, Fla., their home town, where Roman Catholic funeral services were to be held Friday.

His wife, 23, was buried Wednesday near Rosenberg — in the Houston vicinity — during a steady rain after funeral services in a small, white frame church at Needville, her home town.

Funerals of other victims were being held, too, as the wounded in Austin hospitals expressed sorrow, rather than hate, for the slain, apparently demented killer and his family.

Coddle Criminals
"I am very disturbed about the whole question of heinous crimes being committed and — through a plea of insanity — punishment being escaped," Connally told a news conference Wednesday. "We've reached a point in this country where we tend to coddle criminals."

The governor said he was considering seriously a recommendation to the Texas Legislature that "whenever a serious crime where loss of life like this one occurs, and the person is found insane, that the perpetrator be incarcerated for life — and never paroled or released."

He added that he felt his remarks were not particularly applicable to Whitman and his crime.

Connally also indicated he would consider a new firearms law for Texas and possibly a law requiring psychiatrists to notify police of patients who express homicidal urges or show possible murderous tendencies. Whitman had expressed such an urge to a university psychiatrist.

After an initial tally of 179 to 179 was announced on the amendment, Bolling declared: "The vote is 179 to 179. The chair votes 'aye' and the amendment carries." With this, a roar went up from the packed galleries of the House and the milling members on the floor.

The dramatic vote cut an estimated 60 per cent of the nation's housing units out of the proposed open housing law. It was the price its sponsors believed they had to pay to keep any housing provision in the bill.

The amendment removed from the reach of the bill individual home owners and owners of small rental units up to four-family size who live in the dwelling themselves — and any real estate agent they engage to handle the sale or rental of their property.

The exemptions were written unmistakably into the provision. The Judiciary Committee thought it had done so but the language was unclear.

Iron Ore Lake Shipments Off 1965 July Pace
CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — U.S. and Canadian iron ore shipments on the Great Lakes last month were slightly lower than in July, 1965, but shipments for the year to date are ahead of 1965.

The American Iron Ore Association reported today that 10,985,000 gross tons of ore were shipped in July of 1966, compared with 11,194,501 tons in July of 1965.

Tonnage for the year to date totaled 36,964,315 gross tons, compared with 34,209,265 tons through July, 1965.

Further, the research and development costs for the weapons system are soaring although this is not uncommon in projects involving new weapons.

The F111 — and there are two versions to date — may not turn out to be the all-weather, all-purpose air superiority aircraft originally envisioned by McNamara.

The Marine Corps already has told Congress it does not intend to buy the F111 in either the Air Force or Navy versions for close air support of troops.

There have been published reports out of Washington indicating that the Senate Investigations subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., may require its still unclassified hearings.

In 1963 the McClellan subcommittee heard testimony covering over 2,700 pages and collected in 10 volumes, but it never issued a finding.

To date the controversy over the F111 has swirled around the first three prototypes.

A slimmed-down fourth prototype, identified as No. 4 F111B, was rolled off the assembly line in July and its builders contend it will meet the Navy's operating requirements although it, too, is still somewhat overweight. The No. 4 has been flown for 80 minutes.

A Navy decision of whether to buy the F111B is not expected until December after full evaluation of a fifth prototype, which is due for production this month.

Secretary of the Navy Paul Nitze said on July 27 that the F111B was a weapons system "we must make work."

The controversy over the TFX, or F111, began in 1962 when McNamara overrode the recommendations of a 235-man panel of aircraft experts four times.

Big 52s Make Third Raid On Reds' Hideout

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. B52s rained explosives on North Vietnamese positions in the buffer zone between North and South Viet Nam today for the third time in six days.

On the ground, North Vietnamese regulars broke contact with a force of 10,000 U.S. infantrymen and air cavalrymen 235 miles north of Saigon. After three days of short, running fights, there were no reports of new clashes in the central plateau region 10 miles east of the Cambodian frontier.

A U.S. military spokesman said the North Vietnamese were still in the area, scene of a major battle last year. For the moment at least, the North Vietnamese apparently chose not to fight.

Several brigades of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division and the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile Division were deployed in the highlands, ready to launch a "spoiling operation" to blunt the expected Communist drive.

The Saigon spokesman said at least 81 Communists had been killed against light U.S. casualties, but AP correspondent Peter Arnett reported from the field that one infantry company of 69 men was badly mauled Tuesday afternoon when the North Vietnamese lured it into the jungle and pounced on it.

The company commander and several others were killed and most of the rest were wounded.

The B52s, flying in from Guam, hit suspected North Vietnamese infiltration routes, gun positions and supply dumps in the southern half of the demilitarized zone. The U.S. command said the eight-engine bombers struck 30 miles inland in the same general area where they attacked last Saturday and Sunday.

U.S. officers report that elements of North Viet Nam's 324B Division which fought American Marines late in July just to the south had pulled back into the buffer zone.

Eisenhower Back At Office Today
GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is back home at his farm after a week in the hospital for a checkup.

Eisenhower's aide, Brig. Gen. Robert Schulz, said Eisenhower planned to be in his office today for a regular work day.

Eisenhower was flown home by helicopter Wednesday after a general checkup of heart and arthritic condition at Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington.

Doctors said there had been a marked improvement in his arthritic condition in the last few weeks.

Waldo Boys Extradicted To Michigan
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Two of three men accused of the $36,618 holdup June 27 of the Bark River State Bank in Bark River, Mich., have been ordered extradited to their home state.

U.S. District Judge Gus J. Solomon ordered the removal of Roy Edwin Waldo, 35, and Clarence Elman Waldo, 32, both of Reed City, Mich.

They were en route today to Denver, where they will be picked up by a deputy from the U.S. Marshal's office in Michigan.

The Waldos were arrested July 27 in a Portland bus depot. A third man, Robert Duane Ross, 35, Reed City, is accused in the holdup. He is at large.

Chicago Police Skirmish With White Hecklers

By The Associated Press
Police again skirmished with white hecklers who turned out in an all-white Chicago neighborhood to harass 250 civil rights demonstrators protesting alleged housing discrimination.

At least 21 men and women in a crowd of about 1,500 whites were hauled away in police vans as the demonstrators marched through streets to a real estate office Wednesday night. Several persons were injured.

A dead snake, rocks and a tomato were among missiles tossed at the marchers, and several bottles were thrown at police guarding the demonstrators' automobiles in a nearby park.

Marchers were led by three aides of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

King, who has demanded open housing for Negroes in Chicago, is scheduled to address a rally tonight. He called for another march into the white neighborhood Friday.

In Providence, R.I., Gov. John H. Chafee blamed "young ruffians" for racial disturbances in the city two nights this week. He said the incidents must not continue and that they must not be blown out of proportion.

Elsewhere on the racial scene, a 76-year-old Louisiana segregationist, Leander Perez Sr., predicts he will defeat an attempt by the Department of Justice to desegregate schools in oil-rich Plaquemines Parish.

Perez, political boss of the parish straddling the Mississippi River below New Orleans, said Wednesday he has a "perfect case" based in part on the theory that the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution was never properly ratified.

The case is to come before U.S. Dist. Judge Herbert Christenberry in New Orleans Friday. A crowded docket forced a postponement Wednesday.

R. G. Herr Jr., Is Accused As Killer
CHARLOTTE (AP) — The Eaton County prosecutor said in court Wednesday that fingerprints of Richard G. Herr Jr. were found on a butcher knife believed to be the weapon that killed Mrs. Betty Reynolds of Grand Lodge.

Prosecutor Willard Mikesell started presenting a case against Herr, 25, of Lansing, at the defendant's preliminary examination on charges of murder in the July 7 slaying.

Judge Robert Ballard of Charlotte Municipal Court presided. Eaton County detective Thomas Feith testified that he was the first officer on the scene, arriving at the Reynolds home about 2:45 p.m. July 7. He said he found blood in most of the rooms upstairs and in the basement.

Soapy-Governor Draw Top Votes

DETROIT (AP) — G. Mennen Williams has amply proved that, for Michigan Democrats, absence makes the heart grow fonder.

Returning to the state after six years with the State Department, the former six-term Democratic governor was chosen his party's U.S. Senate candidate in a sweeping victory over Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh in Tuesday's primary.

Williams, who practically invented Michigan's modern Democratic party while he governed the state from 1948 to 1960, drew his heaviest vote from labor and Negro supporters in Detroit and its surrounding area.

Unofficial returns gave the 55-year-old Williams 435,848 votes to 289,643 for the 38-year-old Cavanagh.

The apparent lesson of the primary was that Cavanagh simply could not rock the boat that Williams built.

Compromise Is Hammered Out In Hectic Day

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's Democratic and Republican leaders joined today in backing a compromise plan that would have Congress send striking airline mechanics back to work for a month and empower President Johnson to keep them there for five more.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., said they will be among the sponsors of that proposal.

Mansfield said he hopes the Senate will decide before the day is out what Congress should do about the four-week airline walkout.

A major alternative awaiting a Senate decision is legislation that would force an end to the strike.

There was talk also of foregoing any kind of legislation to end the strike.

"There are some people who don't want any legislation but I don't think they'll drag it on," Mansfield said as the Senate opened its third day of debate on strike measures.

The compromise proposal would divide strike-stopping responsibility between Congress and the President in these three steps:

1. Congress would order the strikers back to their jobs for 30 days.

2. The President could appoint a special airlines dispute panel to serve as mediators in contract bargaining. This action would freeze the situation and keep the men on their jobs for another 60 days.

3. If an agreement is not worked out in that period, the President could extend the panel's efforts and the back-to-work freeze for another 90 days.

"This is a proposal that seems to have the greatest amount of support," said Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who helped turn it out Wednesday in a hectic series of cloakroom conferences and later described the compromise to newsmen.

The Senate was to meet earlier than usual, in an effort to act before the day is out.

Morse Objects
"It will be the duty of the members to labor with this matter until we complete it," said Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen.

But Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., indicated there may be alterations in the compromise plan, advanced as an alternative to legislation which would leave to Johnson any strike-ending decision.

Organized labor — a potent political force in a congressional election year — is opposed to any legislation to end the 28-day strike against Eastern, National, Northwest, Trans World and United Airlines by 25,000 members of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists.

In the Senate, Javits insisted that Johnson should make clear the administration's view on strike-stopping legislation.

"We ought to know from this administration what it wants," Javits said.

Dirksen had said Johnson certainly wanted Congress to act.

But when he was questioned about it, Dirksen replied: "The senator was correctly quoted and the senator was abysmally wrong."

Want Johnson Action
The question was posed by Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., who advocates putting the entire decision in Johnson's hands — a move the President doesn't favor. That is the course endorsed by the Senate Labor Committee. Clark's proposal is still alive and would be voted on if the three-step compromise is rejected.

The compromise, one in a bewildering succession of revisions, emerged from conference that brought Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach to Capitol Hill.

Among other participants: Dirksen, Javits, Morse and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

At one point, Mansfield became baffled by the succession of mimeographed proposals. He broke into the debate to announce that the latest revision was being distributed. Shuffled

Revise Plans For Harbor Building To Reduce Cost

Plans for a proposed Escanaba harbor master and public rest room building at the yacht basin will be revised to bring the costs down to original estimates. It was decided Wednesday after a meeting with a representative of the Michigan Waterways Commission.

City Manager George Harvey said the Commission will participate in the cost to the amount of $10,000 and the city an equal share.

Bids received by the City Council recently were considerably above the $20,000 estimate. The consulting engineers on the project will revise the plans and the project will be readvertised.

Charles Lattimer of the Waterways Commission staff met with the Council and with Harvey, and announced the Council on a tour of the harbor and an inspection of the site of the proposed building.

THE DISTRIBUTION of Scleroderris canker on national forests of the Lake States in 1965 is indicated. On the four national forests shown, the only two to 10-year-old sample plantations of pines remaining uninfected were in some parts of the Hiawatha National Forest (light grey areas). The shaded areas are areas of infection in 2 to 10-year-old pine plantations. (U.S. Forest Service chart)

U.S. Forest Pines Periled

Scleroderris Canker Hits Hiawatha

Scleroderris canker is widespread over the Ottawa and Hiawatha National Forests in the Upper Peninsula and the Nicolet and Chequamegon National Forests in Northern Wisconsin.

The disease is present on every ranger district of these four forests where red or jack pine have been planted since 1955. The fungus was found in 116 of 176 red pine plantations and 12 of the 14 jack pine plantations sampled, report Derrill Skilling and Charles Cordell in a U.S. Forest Service report.

The disease was not detected by very limited spot check examinations on either the Huron-Manistee National Forest in Lower Michigan or the Chippewa and Superior National Forests in Northern Minnesota.

Mortality in red pine plantations where Scleroderris canker was present averaged 40 per cent. Jack pine mortality averaged 39 per cent. The most severe damage and tree mortality was on the Ottawa and Hiawatha forests.

First At Kenton During the past several years many young red and jack pine plantations in Upper Michigan and Northern Wisconsin have suffered from poor growth and mortality.

Symptoms of disease were first noted in red pine plantations on the Ottawa Forest's Kenton Ranger District in the spring of 1951. Severe red pine plantation damage was also reported on the Ontonagon Ranger District in 1956. And an apparently similar problem had been noted in the 1-year-old red pine plantation on the Dunbar Experimental Forest near Sault Ste. Marie in 1942.

The Lake States Forest Experiment Station, St. Paul, started a study to identify the disease in 1957. It showed the youngest age class sampled (5 to 9 years) had only 13 per cent survival. Symptoms were also found on living trees in natural red pine stands.

Identified in 1964 Although the problem had existed on the two U.P. national forests for years, the agent that caused it was not identified until 1964. John Ohman, plant pathologist of the North Central Forest Experiment Station isolated a fungus from both red and jack pine cankers which he identified as Scleroderris lagerbergii Gremmen.

It had previously been isolated from diseased red pine in Ontario, Canada in 1962. There are the first confirmed reports of this fungus in North America, but Scleroderris lagerbergii has a long history of pine plantation and nursery injury in Europe.

The disease, Scleroderris canker, was first described in 1888 and since then it has caused serious mortality of conifers in Europe. Recent surveys in Ontario have revealed serious damage in young red pine plantations there. Of 50 plantations sampled, about two-thirds of them were 50 per cent or more dead. Scleroderris canker has been implicated as the agent causing the damage and tree deaths.

Comes From Nursery? The widespread distribution of the disease in the U.P. national forests suggests that either the fungus is capable of rapidly infecting susceptible hosts or the planting stock becomes infected in the nursery. Nursery stock examined repeatedly during 1965, however, disclosed no infection.

Although the fungus was positively identified in all plantations as having Scleroderris canker, not all the tree deaths can be attributed to the disease. Other factors such as insects (primarily white grubs), animal damage (deer and rabbits) and poor planting practices were observed in a number of plantations.

The type of cover seemed to influence both the percentage of plantations with Scleroderris canker and the mortality within plantations. Plantations on open, exposed sites had more canker than plantations growing under cover, like aspen sprouts. Similar results were noted in Canada and in Sweden. And the disease was detected most in frost pocket areas, not only in local depressions, but in large, flat fields with poor air drainage.

The obvious symptoms are dead terminals (tops) and lateral branches, stem cankers and yellow-green discoloration beneath the bark of infected trees.

Recommended actions to combat the disease include: 1. Discontinuance of replanting of red or jack pine on sites where Scleroderris canker has killed trees.

2. Substantial reduction or discontinuance of initial planting of either species where mortality has been severe.

3. Favor spring plantings over fall plantings.

4. Avoid natural earth depressions or low, flat frost pocket areas as planting sites.

5. Provide partial overhead cover for young pines whenever possible.

Luci Is Marrying

Americans think that the British go a bit ga-ga about the doings of their royal family, but we get pretty far out ourselves when there's a big event at the White House and there's to be a biggie on Saturday when Luci Baines Johnson and Patrick Nugent of Waukegan wed.

All fathers of brides will feel sympathetic with Lyndon Johnson, even though he's rich and President of the United States, because, while the husband-to-be is a captive of the wedding process, the father of the bride is even more so. He's caught up in "custom," he's got to do the proper things and they add up to a horrendous bill.

It could be worse, maybe, but it's going to be bad enough with "nobody invited except the immediate country," according to Edie Adams. The marriage service will be in the largest Catholic Church in the nation, the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception which holds 3,500 and the President insisted that everyone invited to the wedding be invited to the reception at the White House, which provides standing room only when it holds a thousand, so the wedding guest list is far below the cathedral's capacity.

A wedding is such a great milestone in living that it has created an old saying that "All the world loves a bride" and it's darned near true. It's easy to love Luci because she is an attractive young person who has shown a lot of gumption and behaved well in a difficult situation.

Her mother was married wearing a new wedding ring hastily bought from Sears, Roebuck for $2.50 but the whole world is watching the preparations for the wedding of Luci and Pat and there'll be truckloads of gifts and they'll have to take along a Secret Service man on their honeymoon and have one live with them in Austin after the ceremony.

Anyone who can face Lyndon B. and say she's going to marry a young man from Waukegan that he didn't pick out—and a Republican besides—should do all right, even in marriage. She says that she's determined that Pat isn't going to be "Mr. Luci Johnson" and there's a familiar ring to that. It could be Lyndon's daughter talking.

Anyone who must live in the goldfish bowl of public life to which fate condemns the daughter of a President—particularly if she is attractive and not timid—must be nimble to survive the inspection and retain any image of normalcy and Luci's got it.

When asked what she and her husband would do in Austin, where they'll live, she said he'd study at the University of Texas for a master's degree and that she'd take typing and shorthand. Her father thinks those are "the two greatest virtues" a woman can have, and his judgment in this matter may get him as much attention from historians as his affairs of state.

And what will the young newweds do for income? Luci was asked, "I haven't heard," she said with mock innocence "of a lot of schools that give salaries."

Bravo!

TREES

When U. S. Highway 101 was being pushed through Northern California redwoods, extreme care was taken to preserve all big trees possible. This necessitated a winding two lane road, later blacktopped. In recent years some of this has been changed to a modern and straighter four lane divided highway.

Had it not been for two cults, the Save the Redwoods League and the Sierra Club, this system would have prevailed from San Francisco to the Oregon border, and to heck with any tree in the way. A motorist can still leave this improved road at high speed and rap a giant living arrow. The tree would be only slightly bruised, and soon recover — For, "So shall they live when ends our day."

When our short life is wafed away, For brief the years allotted man.

But infinite perennials span. By the same token a car can leave the highway on our Memory Lane and rap a pretty sturdy young elm. In the past the results have proved disastrous. Whether or not these trees should be removed is a matter of opinion. Under our flag everyone has a right to his or her opinion. And long may our system survive!

However, pretty much through the efforts of old time nature lovers, America will have at least a 40,000 acre Redwood National Park of unspoiled beauty in California's Del Norte County by 1968. Future generations can thank such people as the late Stephen J. Mather for making this possible.

From a lake we can see the Dutch elm disease creeping along the banks of the St. Clair and Detroit rivers. Being older than Escanaba, Green Bay has some large, beautiful, and healthy old elms in its parks and on its streets. Elms are also doing in the beautiful parks at Niagara Falls.

Questions And Answers

Q—What is the origin of the word "succotash"?

Q—What trees are usually propagated by bud grafting?

A—The stone fruits—peach, plum, and cherry trees.

Q—Which is the largest of the nine planets of the solar system?

A—Jupiter, with a diameter of 86,700 miles.

Q—Where was the nation's first presidential mansion?

ROSS LEWIS, MILWAUKEE JOURNAL

Setback For The Reds

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

CHICAGO — (NEA) — Riots like those in Los Angeles last year and Chicago and other large cities this summer are the raw edge of the Negro revolution. Like any other social revolt, this one is untidy, uncomfortable and more than a little self-defeating.

A major rebellion is a massive criticism of society. But, as a midwestern white liberal told this reporter, the participating critics do not themselves wish to be criticized on any count. To yield at any point strikes them simply as reverting to old attitudes of subservience.

Yet some wise Negro heads, and a good many thoroughly sympathetic whites, argue that refusal to acknowledge human flaws retards the Negro revolution at the very juncture when its most militant activists are shouting that speed is everything.

Surely a riot represents swift action. But the concessions wrung from white authorities by outbursts in Watts and Chicago's West Side tend to be minor. The gains seem, however, to have misled some Negroes into believing that violence really pays off.

There is strong contrary evidence that it only heightens the wall of stubborn white resistance, which both races should be trying to knock down.

In California this June, voters turned down a bond issue for a major advance in Watts—a badly needed hospital. Temperate Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, menaced in a re-election bid by rising post-Watts white backlash, finds himself promoting and boasting of stiff new law enforcement measures—including an anti-riot bill—to suggest to voters a tougher attitude.

It is common today for some fiery Negro spirits to say that whites have no understanding of millions of almost totally alienated Negroes. It may be so. It may also be true that isolated Negroes, seeing all too little of whites, do not understand them.

Just as countless Negroes are gravely confused as to how to mount a swift revolution in a society where changes on the vital job, school and housing fronts come with painful slowness, so are many sympathetic whites troubled over what they see as the unfortunate fuzzing-up of basic values in the Negro movement.

A good proportion do not take seriously Negro extremists' para-military groups, nor their dark talk of degrading trains, blacking out cities, etc. To the extent these threats may be serious, the Negroes involved may not grasp how fully self-destructive their undertakings might prove to be.

White leadership reaction to riots of major size should persuade the extremists that from the earliest moment of real disruption they will be contending not against the police they hate but against heavily armed military force.

Thus overmatched, they can never hope to win anything big, no matter what they destroy or how many people they hurt.

In a futile lashing out, the cost may be high in their own and many innocent lives. Those who say, as some did again in Chicago, that they are willing to die since they must die sometime, miss the point. Their assaults could bring death to hundreds of whites and Negroes who have no wish to die according to the cruel timetable fixed by unfeeling radicals.

Among nonextremist militant leaders, thoughtful whites are saying there is too much tolerance of these radicals. Militant utterances, and even those by such moderates as Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., are seen as offering coded, indirect encouragement to the wild men. King was openly accused of this in Chicago.

The blurring of value lines affects the Negro movement's judgment of police performance everywhere. "Police brutality" has long been so automatic a cry that it seems to suggest there is no proper sphere for use of police power against Negroes.

There is no sympathy for urban police, compelled as is no other element in society to try to separate legitimate Negro social protest from criminal or subversive activity using it as a cloak. The police stand constantly at a point of confrontation never occupied by their sweeping critics.

These confrontations are often ugly. Police, some of them obviously brutalized by too many contacts with disruptive persons both white and Negro, do not always act with restraint. But the whole of this ferment leaves in some doubt the concept of law and order held by many Negro leaders. A revolt for freedom that seems to give Negroes immunity from law will be hobbled by the dominant white community at every turn.

The Doctor Says:

First Aid Important

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstad

When a person is bitten by an animal that is thought to be rabid there is cause for real alarm. Rabies is not common but the possibility must not be neglected. About two million bites by dogs, cats, foxes and raccoons are reported every year. At least 30,000 of these victims receive rabies vaccine because the animal was believed to be rabid or could not be caught and examined.

This points up the fact that if you have a pet dog or cat, it should be vaccinated against rabies for the protection of the family and the community as well as for its own protection.

Whenever possible, an animal that has bitten someone should be captured alive and placed under observation to determine whether or not it has rabies. The most important part of the treatment is immediate first aid by cleansing the wound thoroughly with water and soap or a detergent followed by an antiseptic such as a one per cent solution of benzalkonium chloride. Use a syringe to force the soapy water to the full depth of the wound.

Every animal bite is not a reason to start a course of rabies prevention. If the animal

Copper Firms Ask US Help To Boost Production

WASHINGTON AP—About 100 firms have expressed interest in the government's program to increase domestic copper production, the General Services Administration said Tuesday.

The agency said more than 20 firms have submitted detailed proposals.

GSA emphasized that the deadline for companies to advise they are interested in possibly participating in the program is Aug. 15. The deadline for returning the GSA questionnaire is Aug. 31.

The program was announced last May. GSA indicated at that time that it might enter copper purchase contracts if necessary to provide the incentive to obtain additional domestic production.

An interagency committee has been formed to evaluate the proposals.

Michigan Mirror

By ELMER E. WHITE

Handling of juvenile delinquents is constantly undergoing change as the philosophy turns from punishment to rehabilitation and, hopefully, prevention.

A juvenile convicted of a felony 10 years ago would probably serve a prison term, frequently amidst other criminals. Today he might be involved in a training school, conservation camp or half-way house program.

Starting next year, still other choices will be available to juvenile authorities in dealing with delinquents.

Laws enacted this year provide for the courts to designate errant youngsters as "youthful trainees" before trial on a criminal charge, and permit the establishment of regional detention facilities for juveniles.

Under the first program, the state corrections department would have jurisdiction over the trainees for up to three years. Deviation from the training program established by the department could send the youth back to the court for trial on the criminal charge.

Gus Harrison, acting department director, said the trainees program would probably be used primarily with first offenders. The hope is that the youths would be encouraged to cooperate in their rehabilitation with the knowledge they would not have the stigma of a felony conviction on their record.

Creation of regional detention centers will be part of the long range goal of keeping juveniles away from adult prisoners at all stages of incarceration.

These will be operated by the state social services department. Construction of three facilities is planned initially, with the locations to be decided on the basis of need.

While it has long been deemed desirable to have entirely separate facilities for young prisoners, many Michigan counties are financially unable to provide them and the juveniles are put in jail. Under this new program, the committing counties will pay half the cost of the short-term care provided at the regional centers.

Ann Landers

Hubby Encourages Kisses For Wife

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married for seven years. We get along fine but something about Tom bothers me and I would like to know if I am being silly.

When we are with other couples, Tom says to one of the men, "Why don't you hug Eida?" Or when we're out bowling he'll suggest that one of the fellows give me a big squeeze for luck.

The other evening we were playing cards with neighbors and Tom said, "Whoever wins the pot gets to take Eida in the kitchen and give her a big kiss." Everyone laughed but I don't think he was kidding.

Most husbands would be mad if another man tried to hug or kiss his wife. My husband seems to encourage it. Please tell me what to do.—BAFFLED

Dear Baff: Tell Tom not to offer you around as a good luck charm, a card prize or anything else. Such remarks make him look to all the world like a heel.

If he does it again make it clear that he is not speaking for you and tell him to cut the comedy.

Dear Ann: Your reply to "Too Beautiful" was cruel. I am also "Too Beautiful," and I can tell you it's horrible to go through life with a face and figure that men just alter and women fear.

When I was in high school the boys were afraid to ask me out. They assumed I was always dated up. No one wanted to risk being rejected. I sat home many a night on account of this.

The girls in the office shun me because they figure anyone so good looking has to be a tramp. And they are afraid to introduce me to their boy friends and husbands. I am often excluded from office parties.

So please have a little compassion for those of us who are too beautiful. Life is lonely for us.—MIRROR MIRROR ON THE WALL

Dear Mirror: A little realism can be beautiful, too, Honey. And I recommend it for balance.

If you are as gorgeous as you say, there must be some serious flaws somewhere. I suggest you find out what they are.

Dear Ann: This is no teenage complaint. I am 39 years old and my boy friend is no kid either.

Harvey has a fine job, makes good money and he likes the best of everything—for himself, that is. For my birthday Harvey bought me a wrist watch. It stopped running the third day I wore it. I didn't want to hurt his feelings so I didn't say anything. The repair bill was $8.99. Two days later the crystal fell out. It cost me $2.00 to have it replaced. The following week the stem fell off. When I took it in again the repair man said the watch couldn't have cost more than $17 new (he's sure I got it second hand) and that it was not worth fixing.

For Christmas Harvey told me what he wanted and I bought it—a pocket watch for $88. I'm miffed to think he bought me a piece of junk. Should I tell him?—FLIM FLAMMED

Dear Flim: Don't tell him he bought you a piece of junk. (He knows it.) Tell him you are not wearing his gift because the repairman told you it wasn't worth fixing.

Are you at war with your parents? Do they have too much to say in your life? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Bugged By Parents" How To Get More Freedom." Send $5c in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problem. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

LUNAR TOOL KIT—Space engineers have developed a tool kit which may be standard equipment for the first astronauts to land on the moon. The two-cubic-foot unit, designed for easy storage in the Apollo Lunar Excursion Module, contains 16 geological tools for examining the lunar surface and obtaining rock samples. Weighing in at 62 pounds on earth, it still could be carried easily on the moon, as at left, where it would weigh only 10.3 pounds because lunar gravity is only one-sixth that of earth. Key tool is a battery-operated drill, right, capable of chiseling or coring rock material from basalt to pumice.

Job For Houdini Naturalist:

Finding Spruce Hens Nests

By KENNETH S. LOWE

It's no trick to find spruce grouse in suitable cover, but locating their nests is far from easy.

That's one of the things Dr. William L. Robinson, assistant professor of biology at Northern Michigan University, has discovered in a spruce grouse study he's conducting in the Yellow Dog Plains country of northern Marquette County. Now in its second year, the study is financed by the National Science Foundation.

Robinson and his co-workers flushed, caught and banded 89 spruce grouse last year and about 35 so far this year in a comparatively small area. But they were unable to locate a single nest last year and succeeded in finding only two this year.

One of those two nests was uncovered under unusual circumstances. Jack LaFave was cutting pulp near the Boise Creek. He was about to drop a tree when he happened to look on the ground and saw a female spruce grouse hunkered against the base of the tree. It had refused to flush even though LaFave's chain saw was buzzing loudly only 10 inches above the bird's head.

Push Off Hen

The other nest was discovered by Robinson, and he had to push the hen off the nest in order to check the eggs.

This strong tendency of hens to sit tight on their nests undoubtedly accounts for the difficulty in locating them.

But flushing non-nesting spruce grouse is another matter. On one recent afternoon, Robinson and his assistants and this writer put up two adult cocks, one adult hen and three chicks in a brood in an area of less than a square mile.

In fact, Robinson's studies have shown that spruce grouse are far more abundant in this particular area than are ruffed grouse—because the habitat requirements of the two species are very different.

Out of 75 spruce grouse sightings and 40 ruffed grouse sightings this summer, Robinson found only one spruce grouse in ruffed grouse cover and no ruffed grouse in spruce grouse cover.

Spruce grouse prefer a cover of mixed jack pine and spruce rather than habitat in which either jack pine or spruce predominates. Ruffed grouse avoid this type of cover.

Winter Diet

Spruce grouse, Robinson says, have a winter diet that consists "99.9 per cent of spruce and jack pine needles." Their summer diet is composed largely of berries, leaves and insects.

When a spruce grouse is flushed, it tends to fly only a short distance and perch stubbornly in a tree, regardless of how much commotion is taking place on the ground below it. This habit permits Robinson and his assistants to capture these birds rather easily.

They string a mist net 35 feet long and seven feet wide between two poles and then frighten the perching bird into flying in the direction of the net. If their calculations are correct, the bird will become briefly entangled in the fine webbing of the net, permitting quick capture and banding. Colored bands in an assortment of combinations are placed on the birds' legs, allowing identification of individual birds that may be subsequently flushed.

This identification system has demonstrated to Robinson that adult males are very stationary, while adult females are slightly more mobile. Broods, he has found, range up to three-quarters of a mile.

Robinson believes that spruce grouse clutches number only between six and nine eggs, whereas older literature described clutches of up to 16.

Robinson's project is considered to be the first thorough study ever made of the spruce grouse. He hopes it will be continued next year and that he may be able to affix miniature radio transmitters to adult spruce grouse to follow their movements more closely and learn more about their habits.

July Car Sales 2nd Highest Ever

DETROIT (AP)—The new car market showed surprising strength last month as sales were the second highest of any July and ran well ahead of expectations.

Preliminary sales reports from the four U. S. auto companies reported 635,633 cars sold. This was topped only by last year's July in which 710,721 cars were sold.

The July tally ended had 25 selling days, one less than the 26 of 1965.

The auto industry, which entered July with an inventory of about 1.7 million new cars, had set its sights on sales of 615,000 cars in July to help with an orderly reduction of the huge stockpile.

Sales in the final 10 days of July came to 251,082, second highest July finish in the auto industry's recordbook. New car buyers bought 297,400 in the comparable 10 days last year. There were only nine selling days this time compared to 19 last year.

The 5-millionth new car sale of calendar 1966 was chalked up on July 29 only eight days behind the 1965 pace when the mark was hit July 21.

Figures for the first seven months of this year showed Ford and Chrysler ran ahead of their 1965 sales pace, while General Motors and American Motors trailed last year's figures.

THE DEPARTMENT of Interior studies showed distribution of coliform (intestinal) bacteria, mostly from fecal matter, per 100 milliliters of water in Green Bay and Lake Michigan in 1963 in this pattern. The circles with quarter areas darkened symbolize counts of 1 to 10, half shaded 11 to 100, and three-quarters shaded 110 to 1,000. Coliform bacteria are a pollution indicator. They are associated with plant life but are most commonly identified with the intestines of man and other warm-blooded animals. Some coliform bacteria are from fecal matter in sewage, but some are not.

State, Federal Roles Studied

Green Bay Pollution Cut

Gov. Warren Knowles of Wisconsin at the recent conference on Lake Michigan pollution at Green Bay said that Great Lakes are the greatest fresh water reservoir in the world with some 5,460 cubic miles of water stored. But the Great Lakes are sick and some are on the verge of becoming critically ill — like Lake Erie. Lake Michigan hasn't reached this state of deterioration.

U. S. Financing
Wisconsin knows that pollution abatement is going to be expensive and since the Great Lakes region contains 41 per cent of the nation's population and pays 47 per cent of federal taxes, it wants to be sure that it's getting full value for money spent in federal pollution control.

"We are assessing the roles to be filled by the federal, state and local governments in the battles against pollution in Lake Michigan," said Knowles.

Wisconsin has been fighting pollution since 1927 and Chief Engineer Laurence Mott of the Wisconsin Conservation Department says that since 1949, despite the pollution threat from increased population and industry, there is 7 per cent less pollution in the public waters of Wisconsin today than there was in 1949.

Fox No. 1 Problem
One of the areas most criticized has been the lower Fox River emptying into Green Bay, an area with a great concentration of population and of paper mills. The population there has increased 29 per cent since 1949 but municipal pollution had been reduced 9 per cent and industrial pollution 27 per cent.

The study of the pollution on Lake Michigan included a study of Green Bay, its great western arm along Wisconsin and the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. The Green Bay watershed drains 15,000 square miles, or about one third of the Lake Michigan basin total. About two thirds are in Wisconsin and the rest, or about 5,000 square miles, are in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

Green Bay is 118 miles long and had a mean width of 23 miles and mean depth of about 65 feet. The five major streams draining into Green Bay are the Fox, Ontonagon, Peshigo, Menominee and Escanaba rivers.

Paper No. 1 Industry
The economy makes demands upon the water resources for manufacturing, agriculture, commerce, mining and the tourist and resort industry. The manufacture of paper and allied products is the major industry and analysis of the area's economy indicates that this industry is likely to remain the dominant manufacturing activity in the future.

Doubling of manufacturing is expected by 1980 and the rate of growth beyond that date also looks encouraging. Due to water reuse and other efficiencies, the demands for water are expected to increase at a more moderate pace.

Green Bay and streams tributary to it receive an estimated waste load of 500,000 pounds of oxygen demand per day. (For material to decompose without creating a nuisance, it needs oxygen, so it makes demands upon the oxygen in the water.) About 440,000 pounds of this load is from industry.

Most of the waste load is discharged into Green Bay from the Fox River. Significant waste loads are also discharged at the mouth of the Menominee, Ontonagon, Peshigo and Escanaba rivers.
About 454,000 people, served by 75 municipal sewage treatment plants, discharge some 51,000 pounds of oxygen demand per day into the streams flowing into Green Bay. This is discharged as treated sewage from an untreated load of nearly 126,600 pounds of oxygen demand per day, an overall reduction of 60 per cent. Of the 75 treatment plants, 8 are along the lower Fox River and discharge 60 per cent of the total for the basin.

By 1980 the total waste load treated by municipal plants is projected to reach 190,000 pounds of oxygen demand per day. With a 90 per cent treatment efficiency the discharged load should be 19,000 pounds per day, or only about one-third of the present municipal discharge.

Sewage Effluent
By the year 2020 the total waste load treated by municipal plants is projected to reach 370,000 pounds of oxygen demand per day, of which 230,000 will come from domestic sources, while 140,000 will come from connected industry. With 95 per cent treatment efficiency, the discharged load would remain about 19,000 pounds.

Escanaba, with 15,390 population connected with its sewage treatment system, is receiving municipal wastes totaling a raw sewage population equivalent of 11,750, and discharging from its secondary treatment plant into Portage Creek and Green Bay a raw sewage equivalent of 2,580 population. (Treatment reduces the equivalent from 11,750 to 2,580).

Gladstone, with 5,260 population connected to its primary treatment plant, is receiving a raw sewage equivalent (figured on a formula of oxygen demand of 1.67 per capita) of 5,200 population and discharging a raw sewage equivalent of 4,100 population, which exceeds that of Escanaba with almost three times as much population.

The industry waste inventory of the report says Mead Corp.'s mill at Escanaba, with an effluent of 6.8 million gallons a day, has an oxygen demand of 11,150 pounds, and suspended solids discharge of 12,500 pounds a day. (This compares with an oxygen demand discharge of 52,740 pounds a day by Kimberly Clark's mill at Kimberly, Wis., on the Fox River, and suspended solids discharge of 39,440 pounds a day.)

The water quality of parts of Green Bay may be considered as separate from Lake Michigan because of the small mixing of its waters which results in a differing water quality from the main lake. Areas of degraded water quality are generally confined to the mouths of streams, harbors and population centers where treated and untreated waste discharges are prevalent.

The principal water quality problems are due to high concentrations of ammonia, phosphate and phenol, and low dissolved oxygen concentrations resulting from organic wastes. The most degraded region is at the south end of Green Bay at the mouth of the Fox River. The other degraded zones appear at the mouths of the Ontonagon, Peshigo, Menominee and Escanaba rivers.

The problems of water pollution control in Green Bay are complex, the Department of Interior reports. Solutions will necessitate construction of new sewage facilities, continuous and intensive monitoring of operating procedures, treatment plant efficiency and water quality conditions.

Plant Needs
Immediate goals in treatment of municipal wastes is secondary treatment at every sewage plant to provide 90 per cent oxygen demand removal. Adequate effluent disinfection is also necessary where the receiving waters are used recreationally. Of the 75 bay area treatment plants, 52 provide secondary waste treatment. It's estimated that needed plant improvements would cost $7.9 millions, without the extra needed facilities to increase phosphate removal.

Under this schedule Escanaba needs no new facilities; Gladstone needs a secondary treatment plant.
Pulp and paper mill wastes are the largest source of pollution in the Green Bay area and in general industries have only limited waste treatment facilities. In addition to necessary reduction in the organic waste load from industry, certain other measures are held necessary.

These include reduction of suspended solids and secondary biological treatment and disinfection of plant sanitary wastes.
Escanaba Needs
A table of plant waste reduction needs for major industrial waste sources on the bay includes: Mead Corp., present waste discharge stream loading rate of 11,150 pounds of oxygen demand a day to a recommended limit of 2,300 pounds. There is immediate need for reduction of nutrient loads in Green Bay reported, as concentrations of phosphate in nearly every zone are far above the level considered critical for the stimulation of algae.
The study found that secondary treatment sewage plants which need operational improvement include Escanaba's

ALTON, Ill. (AP)—Members of the Rosewood Heights Baptist Church are experiencing a sermon blackout because ham radio operators are hoarding in on the public address system.

Rifles, Shotguns Not Restricted By States

By The Associated Press
Most states have no laws against the purchase of rifles or shotguns despite growing pressure for stiffer regulations, an Associated Press survey shows. Of 10 states checked, only two—New Jersey and Rhode Island—require a prospective purchaser to obtain a rifle permit.

New Jersey requires a person to apply to local police for a $2 lifetime identification card. The police then investigate the applicant's background and fingerprint him before issuing the card.

Maine and West Virginia laws stipulate that gun dealers report to police any person buying a rifle or shotgun.

Virginia, alone of the states surveyed, has no gun-control law. Connecticut State Police say that the sale and purchase of rifles in their state is "pretty much unregulated." And in Texas, where Charles J. Whitman shot and killed 12 persons and an unborn baby from a 27-story tower with high-powered rifles, there is no law against carrying rifles, carbines and shotguns.

Of the states canvassed, 20 require permits for pistols. New York, which has one of the strictest state laws, requires that a prospective purchaser of a pistol be a resident of or principally employed in the state.

After investigations by the local police and in state mental hygiene files, the person must be photographed and fingerprinted. The fingerprints are checked with the FBI and the State Department of Correction.

If all this is approved, the person must obtain a permit from a judge of any court of record who can turn down an application without appeal.

In New Jersey, a prospective buyer must apply to his county judge for a permit that is renewable annually.

About 15 states have laws forbidding the carrying of concealable weapons, or hand guns.

The states are virtually unanimous in forbidding the sale of firearms to felons. But in California any felon who has served time for crimes such as assault with a deadly weapon, manslaughter or murder can obtain a weapon with no restrictions as long as it is not concealable.

In 1965 two men wanted for murder in Oregon kidnaped California's finance director, his wife and infant daughter, and found no problem in purchasing rifles and ammunition at stores in separate California cities.

Some Western states still have laws that carry over from pioneer days when youngsters were expected to bear arms to protect the family. Montana,

Youth Confab To Be New Part Of Michigan Week

EAST LANSING (AP)—The 1967 Michigan Week should include conferences of youth people in each community on how to improve opportunities for youth in Michigan, the Michigan Week Council decided Tuesday.

The council asked that each community hold a youth conference on Youth Day, May 27.

Robert B. Miller, publisher of the Battle Creek Enquirer and News and chairman of the Greater Michigan Foundation's council on youth programs, said main objective of the 1967 program will be to search out all the youth opportunities in Michigan and to determine what young people seek for the future.

Church Prints Report About Spiritual Healing

A report on the impact of spiritual healing in many parts of the world has been published in connection with the centennial of Christian Science.

Issued as a contribution to the revived interest in spiritual healing among many of the traditional churches, the book, called "A Century of Christian Science Healing," draws on thousands of published and tape-recorded testimonies, volunteered and verified by witnesses, which have become part of church records.

The occasion for the book is the centennial of Christian Science, which traces its origins to a healing experienced by Mary Baker Eddy in 1828.

The book opens with this incident but emphasis is given to the broader concept of healing as "spiritual wholeness" applied to all aspects of human living.

Help From Rotary:

Children's Camp Harstad For Handicapped In 17th Year

Community service is one of the goals of Rotary Clubs, and for many years Escanaba Rotarians have dedicated themselves to a major project — the sponsorship of a summer camp for crippled and handicapped children.

Meeting recently with the children at Rotary Camp Harstad on the Ford River shore, the Rotarians renewed acquaintance with the children and the program they maintain for the children's benefit.

Clarence "Clancy" Moore, physical therapist for the Escanaba Area Public Schools, is director of Rotary Camp Harstad. His professional experience provides an invaluable service to the crippled youngsters — for some a continuing benefit through the summer after treatment as a part of the public school special education program.

Moore is assisted at camp by Henry Wiley, an Escanaba Area High School teacher with a knowledge of nature and an enthusiasm for camping.

Careers In Service

Rotary Camp Harstad's cook is Mrs. Cecelia Breault, who was aided for the Rotary luncheon by Mrs. Ann Brazeau.

Young people working at Camp Harstad as counselors or instructors find satisfaction in helping those less fortunate, in aiding those with handicaps to overcome them, and helping them gain some small triumph in their battle against their difficulties.

Karyl Johnson of Escanaba, for example, has worked at Camp Harstad as a counselor for five years; James Moore has been a counselor for four years. Junior counselors include Lani Norton and Gregg Johnson.

Speech Therapy

Sometimes the inclination toward a career in special education is strengthened by the experiences of the counselors at Camp Harstad, and they pursue college courses to train them for work with children who have defects of speech, or hearing, or other handicaps.

Becky Lindburg, a senior at Western Michigan University, is the speech therapist at Camp Harstad. She has another talent the children love — she plays the guitar and leads them in folk songs.

Paddy Fitch, the wife of Dr. Donald N. Fitch, Escanaba physician, supervises the speech correction program at Harstad. About one-third of the youngsters at camp have speech problems.

Most of these have difficulty with articulation, said Mrs. Fitch. Some are hard of hearing, others have cleft palates. The children are given the benefit of speech corrective lessons in small groups, with the classes lasting from one-half hour to 45 minutes.

The remainder of the youngsters are handicapped or retarded and for them there is much that is beneficial in the Camp Harstad program: Projects of handicrafts and games that provide exercise and develop skills; and of course the play equipment and the swimming that encourage healthful recreation in the open air and sunshine.

Moore, the camp director, expressed to Rotarians appreciation for the cooperation of the Escanaba Area Public Schools district in providing transportation for the children to and from Camp Harstad. The camp period is for about six weeks and the youngsters are transported by school bus.

staff for their work on behalf of the children, said Isadore Stein.

Rotary's interest in the crippled and handicapped of the community dates back many years, when the late Herman Gessner stimulated action by the Rotary Club in programs of assistance to crippled children. There were many others through the years — James

The name Rotary Camp Harstad came as a result of one of the original gifts, a tract of land with 150 feet of shore frontage from the late Ole Harstad, Bark River businessman.

The camp on the bay shore, however, was the cooperative work of many individuals and groups in the community. Children had camped at Ford River beginning about 1945, and then the goal of a permanent structure inspired the help of trade unions, industries and professions and Camp Harstad was completed in 1949.

Much of the work and materials were gifts. There have been many improvements since 1949, and today Rotary Camp Harstad, which is largely supported by gifts from Rotarians, pros. memorials and other contributions — is an example of community action on

Swensons Will Continue Store

By MARGARET ADAMS
GLADSTONE—The day after the big fire in Gladstone found most people unable to believe the old landmark, Swenson Bros. Furniture Store, is no more.

Looking at the blackened hole that once housed the furniture store, so well known throughout the Upper Peninsula, and the familiar local bar it's hard to believe they are gone forever.

However, that's all in the past and Noble and William Swenson were busy Wednesday arranging furniture in the Hardware Store across the street where they plan to continue their business from that temporary site.

According to Noble Swenson, merchandise is arriving daily and with the stock that was saved by the heroic efforts of firemen and bystanders they will be open for business after legal matters are adjusted.

The Swensons expressed their gratitude to all who assisted them. They are seeking the identity of a driver of a Mayflower truck who, single handed, removed the safe containing all the company records.

Joe Depuydt, owner of Wally's Bar, says it's too soon to say just what he will do. His loss was about one third covered by insurance, he reported.

Everyone agreed it would have been another story had the wind not switched directions when it did — and if our neighboring towns hadn't rallied to our aid.

Trucker Smashes Bright Lights On Following Auto

TIFFIN, Ohio (AP)—A Saline, Mich., man, irritated by the bright lights on an auto following his truck, was accused here of smashing his truck and smashing the car's headlights with a tire tool.

Mrs. Emma Hinkle of Wolcott, Ind., filed a charge of malicious destruction of property against George Bardell, operator of a semitrailer truck. Taken into municipal court, Bardell posted $100 bond on the charge.

Highway patrolman W. L. Smith of the Tiffin post had halted Mrs. Hinkle on Ohio 18 because her car had no lights. Then she told the officer that a truck driver had stopped his truck in front of her, and that when she stopped, the driver got out and used a tire tool to smash her headlights.

The patrolman arrested Bardell west of here. He complained that the automobile had followed him with bright lights, without passing his vehicle.

The volume of air traffic at Escanaba continues to increase, with a total of 1139 passengers transported in and out of Escanaba in July by North Central Airlines, it is reported by Jon G. Thorne, airport manager. In addition there were 126 transient passengers.

Three juveniles who admitted the breaking and entering of A's Tavern in Escanaba and the theft of $17 and a case of beer have been referred to Delta County Juvenile Court. The boys were apprehended at Gaylord, driving an automobile they had stolen from Wells.

Traffic court summonses have been issued by Escanaba police to Elmer C. Sanders, 205 S. 17th St., failing to yield the right of way; Don J. Miller, Middleburg, Ind., careless driving, excessive tire noise and improper starting; LeRoy F. Sovey, 1320 N. 22nd St., expired operator's license; and Anna K. ## Duck Hatch In Canada Is Good

Just completed brood counts and late nesting ground surveys by Ducks Unlimited's field biologists are confirming the optimistic hopes of conservationists across the nation—1966 has been an excellent duck production season throughout the prime "duck factory" areas of Canada, where two of every three waterfowl on the continent are hatched. Abundant water and nesting cover provided the ducks with plenty of vital habitat in which to build nests and to hatch and successfully raise their broods. Excellent weather has also played a major role in the exceptional nesting effort. Even though a brief cold spell in late April and early May divided the brood season into early and late phases, field surveys indicate that it did little to hamper production. DU (Canada) biologists report that early broods of mallards and pintails have now been on the wing for several weeks, but that the peak of the hatch occurred in early July and newly hatched birds are still putting in an appearance.

In modern usage, the term "brood money" is applied to the reward or bribe paid for giving up a criminal to justice.

Homemaking Tips

If you are ambitious and want to bake them, you'll find fruit turnovers are wonderful to take along on a picnic.

Salt herring must be washed and soaked overnight in water to cover before using.

Marinate a steak overnight in oil, wine vinegar and herbs; grill over coals; slice thin and serve the family steak sandwiches for that outdoor supper.

Bake brownies in a square 8-inch foil pan and store, in the pan, in the freezer.

Blueberry Angel Food Cake Is Heavenly Fare

It is said that angel cake was first called that because of its pure white color.

Then again, some people insist the name is a tribute to its light airiness and heavenly taste.

And what could be more suitable to enhance its ethereal flavor than the only berry to boast the color of the sky? Angel cake combined with fresh blueberries makes a treat fit for the gods.

During the all-too-short season for fresh cultivated blueberries, try them in new ways as well as the old tried-and-true favorites. Just because the family had blueberry pancakes for breakfast, and blueberry muffins for lunch don't think they won't want blueberry angel cake for dinner. Just try them and see!

BLUEBERRY ANGEL CAKE
1 pkg. angel food cake mix
1 cup fresh cultivated blueberries

1/2 cup sugar
1-1/2 cups water
1 envelope unflavored gelatin

1/2 cup cold water
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Make angel food cake according to package directions. Cool. Place fresh blueberries, sugar and water in saucepan. Bring to a boil and simmer about 5 minutes. Put through a sieve or food press to eliminate skins. Soften gelatin in 1/2 cup cold water and add to hot blueberry juice, stirring until gelatin is dissolved. Add lemon juice.

Chill mixture until partially thickened and then beat with an electric mixer until light and fluffy and stands in peaks. Add the whipped cream and mix thoroughly. Slice cake into two layers and spread blueberry-cream mixture on bottom layer. Replace top and sides of cake with remaining blueberry cream. Decorate top with additional fresh blueberries. Keep in refrigerator until ready to serve. Yield: 12 generous servings.

Saltines make a crisp accompaniment for chile con carne and are handy to serve when French bread isn't on hand.

Dave Friets Fires 70, Leads U.P. Golfers

By DAVE ANDREWS

The leaders in the Upper Peninsula Men's Golf Tournament challenged Escanaba Country Club's lakeside winds today after taking a jacking from Highland's par Wednesday in the opening round of the tournament.

Of 155 men in the field, only one bettered par over the first 18-holes of the 36-hole qualifying test.

Dave Friets of Highland fired a pair of sharp 35s for the first round lead at two-under-par 70.

He was followed by Bill Dines of Sault Ste. Marie with an even par 72 and Gary LaBrecche, Menominee North Shore, with 73.

Defending champion Bill Peterson of Ontonagon soared to a six-over-par 78 and stands well back in the field in the 72-hole medal tournament. Qualifying scores, which will be used to determine final placement after today's rounds, will count in the tournament standings.

Favorites in the tournament were paired at Highland yesterday for the first round in order to bring them back to the host Country Club links for the final round Saturday and it showed up in the scoring.

Forty-two golfers turned in rounds of 80 or better and 38 of them were carded at the Highland. The only man to break 80 at the Country Club was Rod Carlson of Ishpeming—and he needed a brilliant two-under-par 34 on the final nine holes to reach 79.

Carlson went out in 45, but blazed back with consecutive birdies on holes four, five and six of the back nine. His 34 was the only sub-par nine holes turned in at the Country Club as winds roared off

Little Bay de Noc turning easy shots difficult.

Friets' two 35s paced a flock of sub-par nine hole scores at the Highland, but he was the only golfer to put two nines together.

After starting with an eagle two on the short first hole, Friets reeled off five straight pars, then rammed in a birdie on the 374-yard seventh to go three-under par.

"I had a golden opportunity for a real good score, but I three-putted the eighth hole and drove into the creek on the ninth for bogey," he said.

The leader recovered nicely, however, with a birdie three on the first hole of the back nine. He lost a shot to par on the fifth hole, but birdied the ninth to finish two-under-par for the day.

Dines went out in 37, but charged in birdies on holes one, three and five of his second nine to go two-under-par. He failed to hold the pace and finished with bogeys on seven and eight and a par on nine for a 72.

LaBrecche started fast with birdie three on the first two holes, but he lost both shots to bogeys on the long fourth and fifth holes. He caught another bogey on nine to turn in 37 and played par golf on the second tour for his 73.

Sharpest front side of the day at Highland was turned in by Warren Farley of Ishpeming, a two-under-par 34. He faltered to a 41 on the incoming nine and was bracketed with five other golfers at 75—five shots back.

Included in that group was Ken Hruska of Marquette, who spoiled an even par round with bogeys on the final three holes.

Jack Smith and Barney Barnhart of the Highland covered 76s to join the rest of the Escanaba contingent in playing catchup to Friets.

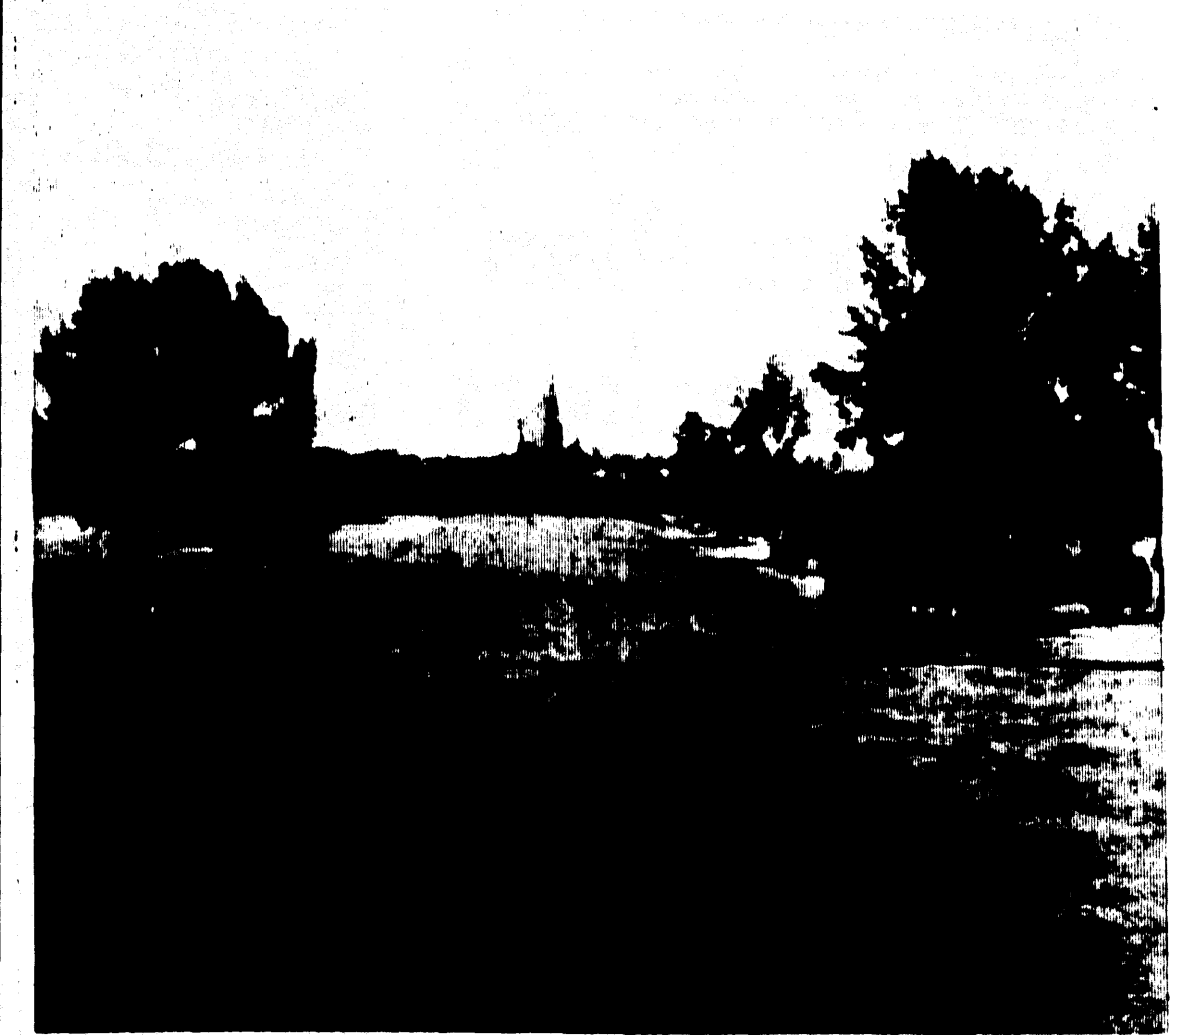

Dick Knoll, Country Club, was one of nine golfers with 77, while Bill Els Jr., Country Club, Mel Manske, Highland, and Jerry Sundquist, Highland, were among seven at 78, including defending champion Peterson.

Four-time U. P. Tournament runnerup, Elmer Swanson, Country Club, turned in a 79 as did two-time champion, Don Feller, Country Club, and Jack Landquist, Country Club.

Walter Johnson, 1964 champion from Crystal Falls, recovered from an opening 44 with a 37 to stand at 81.

Highland's short first hole proved easy for golfers Wednesday, yielding 37 birdies and a pair of eagles. Leader Dave Friets had an eagle and a birdie in two tries.

Micklow, one of the best golfers at Marquette Country Club, was hit with a ball on the 5th hole at the Highland Wednesday. Micklow was standing on the green when an errant tee shot from the second hole struck him in the chest near his left shoulder, knocking him off his feet. He finished the day with a 78, but had bogeys on three of his final four holes after being hit.

THE AWESOME 9th hole at the Escanaba Country Club challenged the leaders in the Upper Peninsula golf tournament today. The hole stretches 432 yards from tee-to-green and plays as a par four. It is rated by most golfers as the toughest par four hole in the Upper Peninsula. Photo was taken from atop the green looking toward the tee. (Daily Press Photo)

Richer Brothers Top Race Card

The Richer brothers — Jerry and Art — stole the modified show Wednesday at the State Fair grounds track.

In close races in the second modified heat and the modified final, Jerry Richer beat his brother and Bobby Iverson across the finish line as the only double winner of the U. P. Stock Car Association program.

The first modified heat was won by Dick Williams of Marquette. Williams, however, tipped his car in the modified semi-final and did not finish the race, won by John Krogstad.

In the stock car division, Jim Barron of Escanaba won the feature race with Rich Peterson second. Jerry DeShambo third and Fred Horrocks, Gwinn, fourth.

Tim Runkel of Escanaba, who ran with the 10-lowest car in a consolation race last Saturday, came up with victory.

New NHL Team To Be Flyers

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia's new National Hockey League entry will be known as the Flyers. President Bill Putnam announced Wednesday.

The name denotes action, speed and skill and suggests a "flycatcher," after going through 11,000 ballots filled out by hockey fans.

Putnam said there were 300 suggestions for names. He said about 100 persons suggested Flyers.

Baltimore Training Camp Aimed At Packer Opener

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — The Baltimore Colts' training camp is aimed at one thing — to get Green Bay at Milwaukee — Green Bay at Milwaukee — Saturday night, Sept. 10. The opener could make or break the National Football League season.

The Colts were 0-2 against the Packers last year and Coach Don Shula has not let them forget the memory of the disputed field goal and the heart-breaking 13-10 defeat in the sudden-death playoff game last December.

Shula thinks the Colts came out of the injury-riddled 1965 season as a better club. Although Johnny Unitas was hurt and then Gary Cuozzo, the Colts fought back and forced the play off with halfback Tom Matte filling in at quarterback.

Unitas, of course, is the big man on the Colts team. Apparently he has recovered from surgery on his right knee, which kept him out of the last three games in 1965. At 32, Unitas needs only two more touchdowns to match Y. A. Tittle's NFL record of 212.

Cuozzo has proved he can handle the quarterback job. His damaged left shoulder, he healed after surgery, in case of trouble. Shula always can go back to Matte, although he plans to keep Tom at halfback. The veteran Ed Brown has retired.

The big problem is the offensive line. The retirement of offensive tackle George Peas and guard Alex Sandusky has created a fluid situation, but there is a chance Sandusky may be lured back.

The absence of three rookies, who are at the College All-Star camp, complicates the situation. The most important is Sam Ball, the No. 1 draft choice from Kentucky. If Ball can handle difficult tackle job, the Colts will be solid. Bob Vogel, a potential all-league tackle is set on the other side.

Experiments In Line

Shula has experimented with Don Sullivan and Dale Memmelaar at guards. However, an injury to Memmelaar brought Tim Parker back after a try at right tackle.

The veteran Raymond Berry at split end, John Mackey at tight end and Jimmy Orr at

Four Pitchers Fail Podres

Bullpen Collapses, Tigers Divide

DETROIT (AP) — A sore elbow and the collapse of a well-rested bullpen prevented the Detroit Tigers from pulling up on the front-running Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night.

The Chicago White Sox, held to a run and five hits by Johnny Podres through the first seven innings, jumped on four relievers for five runs in the eighth and downed the Tigers, 6-3, in the second game of a two-night doubleheader.

Jim Northrup's dramatic pinch two-run homer in the ninth inning of the opener gave the Tigers a 3-1 triumph. The split put the Orioles' lead to 12½ games.

"Johnny told me his elbow was bothering him and that he wasn't feeling free out there," Acting Manager Frank Skaff explained.

"The bullpen was rested. The Tigers had seen their starters go all the way in the last three games and I wasn't about to take any chances."

"Wouldn't it have been something if I didn't make the move and he would have injured himself permanently in the next inning?" Skaff added.

Larry Sherry, who had won six games and saved 13 others, gave up a single in Pete Ward and a game-tying homer to John Romano. Skaff called in Dave Wickersham, a former Sherry walked Ken Berry in the eighth.

Smoke Burgess' pinch single scored Bill Skowron with the go-ahead run and Tommie Agee's bases-loaded single chased home two insurance runs.

"Those things just happen," Skaff said in breaking the silence of the Detroit dressing room. "Any other time and we would have seen our first re-ever now them down.

"That's the longest Podres has gone this year. He did a whole lot of jobs — did the whole team. They really hustled," he added.

The Tigers had forced ahead in the third inning when Jake Wood tripled home Don Wert and scored on a single by Norm Cash. Willie Horton singled to chase starter Jack Lamabe and the Tigers were held to one hit the rest of the way.

Mickey Lolich and Bruce Howard staged a tight pitching duel through the first eight innings of the opener, allowing just five hits between them.

Berry snapped the deadlock when he homered in the ninth. It was his third hit of the game.

Jerry Lumpe doubled and Orlando McFarlane singled to tie the score in the Detroit half of the inning. Northrup then came on and sent reliever Hoyt Wilhelm's third pitch into the upper deck seats in left-center.

"I talked to the umpires after the game and they said Northrup hit a real good knuckle ball. Wilhelm just made the mistake of pitching the ball where Northrup was swinging," Skaff said.

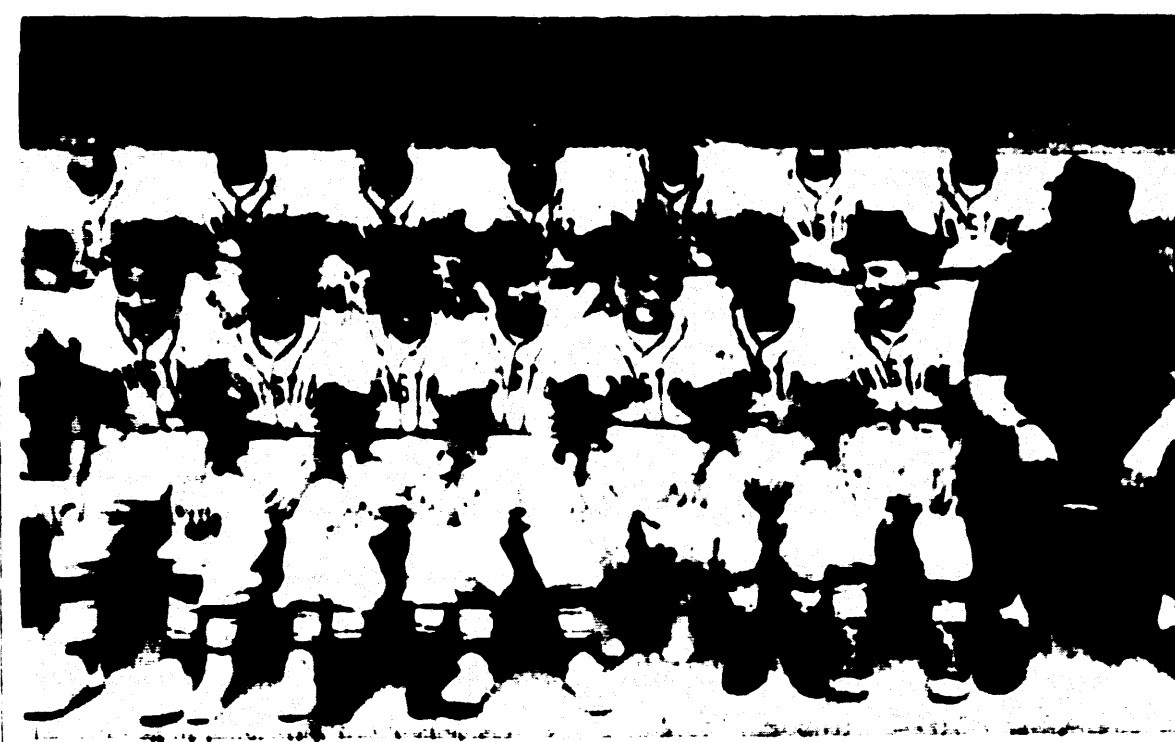

The Tigers were idle today but open a four-game weekend series against Boston Friday night.

Veale Painful For Dodgers

By The Associated Press

Bob Veale has a pain in the back. And he's giving the Dodgers a lot of trouble.

Los Angeles has faced the big Pirate pitcher twice this season and has collected a grand total of one unearned run, 12 hits and two walks off him. In beating the Dodgers 3-1 Wednesday night, Veale struck out 11, just as he did when he beat them back in May.

By The Associated Press

Dave Boswell's barnyard impressions still break up his teammates, but the Minnesota Twins' funny man is dead serious about his new act — impersonating Sandy Koufax.

Boswell fired a four-hitter against Boston Wednesday night for his seventh straight victory and added 10 strikeouts to his American League lead as the Twins battered the Red Sox 7-2.

The 21-year-old pitching prodigy has been the A's answer to Koufax, Los Angeles' fabulous left-hander, over the past two months — and he's actually been a couple of steps ahead of the Dodger ace in recent weeks.

Emerald Gridders Asked To Report, Workouts To Start

MANISTIQUE — Coach Ron Rubick of the Manistique Emeralds has issued a call for football candidates, and physical examinations for all grades 9-12 are scheduled Aug. 13 at 1:30 p. m.

Mouthpieces for sophomores, juniors and seniors will be fitted at the same time and fees collected.

A week of pre-season conditioning will begin Aug. 8 at 6:30 p. m. for sophomores, juniors and seniors. Varsity equipment will be issued after the conditioning period. Last year's varsity squad will receive equipment Aug. 8, juniors and seniors not on last year's team, Aug. 9, and sophomores, Aug. 10.

The victory brought Bero Motors to within a half-game of first place. They can gain a virtual tie tonight by beating Mead.

In the other game last night, Mead defeated LaFave's 12-2 in five innings.

Lois Levine Tops Women Golfers At Marquette

MARQUETTE—Lois Levine of Ishpeming fired an 86 Wednesday to take low gross honors in the Women's U. P. Invitational Golf Tournament at Marquette Country Club.

Anna Myers, Sault Ste. Marie, had an 87 for second. She had the low nine-hole round of the day, 41.

Rosemary LeMire paced Escanaba Country Club entries with 90 and Bobbi Treiber had low net with 75. Vicki Beck had a 93 to lead Highland entries and Kate Nelson had low net with 75.

A field of 109 golfers from 12 clubs played.

Turns Serious

His bird-calls were a big hit, too, and his squeaking barn door always was in demand, but the strapping Baltimore native was a troubled pitcher. He was the clubhouse comedian — and his won-lost record was 0-4.

"I don't want that goofy reputation," he said. "I'm going to be serious this year."

Then he went out and proved it. Since June 1 he has won 11 of 12 decisions. Koufax, 9-1 on June 1, has been 8-4 since then. Boswell has won his last six starts. Koufax has won two of his last six.

Sandy's earned run average of 1.64 is far superior to Boswell's 3.00 mark, but the Min-

College All-Stars Plan Land War On Packers

CHICAGO (AP) — With six exceptional runners ready as shock troops, the College All-Stars seem to be preparing for an infantry attack against the Green Bay Packers Friday night.

But not even the pros have been very successful on the ground against the Packers, the National Football League champions, and the running strength of the All-Stars may prove to be just a diversionary tactic.

Short passes by Alabama's Steve Sloan, Missouri's Gary Lane and Tulsa's Bill Anderson, the nation's leading aerialist last season, may provide the main tonic for the upset wanted by head coach John Sauer.

And, too, anything past mid-field seems to be field goal range for side-foot kicker Charles Gogolak of Princeton. His boots could make a difference, just like the two field goals by Bob Jencks that nudged the collegians to their last victory in the series—20-17 over the Packers in 1963.

The football classic in Soldier Field will be televised by ABC starting at 10 p.m. EDT, and the expected arena crowd is 65,000. The pros hold a 21-9-1 edge in the rivalry. The Packers rule a 13-15 point favorite.

Donny Anderson of Texas Tech and Jim Grabowski of Illinois, who have been signed by the Packers for a total reported to be more than $300,000, are among the All-Stars' big guns.

Others are Roy Shivers of Utah State, Walt Garrison of Oklahoma State, Heisman Trophy winner Mike Garrett of South California and Johnny Roland of Missouri.

The Packers arrive Thursday and will have a night limbering up drill in Soldier Field.

Youth, 13, Dies Of Head Injury From Baseball

WARREN (AP) — Peter Walters, 13, of Warren, died Wednesday in a hospital from a head injury suffered a week ago in a baseball game.

Peter was trying to stretch a double to a triple when he was struck by a relay throw.

Peter never regained consciousness.

His mother said she felt no bitterness.

"It would have been much worse if he had died in a fight or a car accident. This was good clean play and an accident — an act of God. I hold no one responsible."

She said the boy who threw the ball was in shock after the accident.

Five Lions May Miss Viking Tilt

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions may have to face the Minnesota Vikings Saturday without the services of five players.

The Lions are hardest hit at the tight end position where Ron Kramer will definitely be out with a broken bone in his hand and Jim Gibbons is a doubtful starter because of a knee injury. John Henderson is expected to fill in at tight end.

Detroit will also have to operate without the services of two rookie linemen, Doug Van Horn and Bob Kowalkowski, who are serving two-week hitches with the National Guard in Colorado. Linebacker Bill Cody is also a doubtful starter Saturday because of injuries.

Unitas, Cuozzo Lead 35-0 Colts Triumph

By The Associated Press
Tom Matte was all but forced into retirement as a professional quarterback Wednesday night and John Brodie emerged from his self-imposed layoff, leaving the Baltimore Colts and San Francisco 49ers looking forward hopefully to the National Football League season.

Matte, a halfback, forced into the signal-calling spot late last season when injuries sidelined first Johnny Unitas and then Gary Cuozzo, was on the sidelines Wednesday night as Unitas and Cuozzo returned to action.

The Colts ran the pro coaching debut of Otto Graham as they led the Colts to a crushing 35-0 exhibition victory over Washington before a sellout 45,800 that included President Johnson.

Unitas, showing no ill effects from a knee injury suffered last season, threw for two touchdowns and set up another score with his tosses.

Then Cuozzo took over and threw 34 yards to Willie Richardson for another score as the Colts built a 35-0 halftime lead.

The defense completely stopped a trimmed-down Sammy Winder and Dick Smer of the Redskins.

Brodie was the man of the hour for the 49ers when he ended a two-week holdout and signed a contract reportedly for $750,000 for four years.

In the AFL, veteran tackle Eldon Deneenbauer of Denver suffered a broken arm after returning from retirement and will be out indefinitely, and guard John Nisby will be lost to the Oakland Raiders because of a torn cord in his right heel.

The New York Jets released flanker Jim Evans while the Cleveland Browns dropped halfback Jamie Caleb.

The Atlanta Falcons cut loose veterans Ken Kirk, a center, and John Conoulos, a tackle, and rookies Martin Kahn, a tackle, and guard Kent Francis.

The Falcons claimed on waivers guard Mike Tabor from Los Angeles and defensive back Sam Montgomery from Green Bay.

Detroiters Seek Next Title Fight

DETROIT (AP) — A group currently promoting boxing shows at Cobo Arena is expected to try to convince Cassius Clay to defend his heavyweight title here, it was learned Wednesday.

Ray Scott, captain-forward of the Detroit Pistons and matchmaker for the Sportsmen's Boxing Club, said group representatives intended to talk to Clay when he returns from his European tour.

Clay will defend his title Saturday in London against Brian London. He also has a date with Karl Mildenberger in Germany Sept. 10, if he beats London.

Talk Last Month
Clay indicated early this week that a number of cities were being considered but declined to name any.

"I talked with Clay when he was in town a little over a month ago," Scott said. "We didn't talk business, and he didn't make any promise to fight in Detroit."

"But once he returns from Europe, I'm sure he'll be looking for places to fight. He's helping his image in Europe now and I know he wants the same thing in the States," Scott continued.

"I am sure that we can convince him that if he wants to fight in Detroit he'll do well to fight under our auspices," Scott added.

Use Cobo Hall
"We could scale the price of seats at Cobo Arena to assure him of a pretty good financial return for his troubles," Scott concluded.

Cobo Arena's capacity for boxing is about 12,000.

The boxing club, formed by 50 area business and sports men, promoted its first program last July 11. One other show was held last month and two more are slated for August.

The fourth scheduled show, slated for Aug. 29, will feature Grand Rapids heavyweight Buster Mathis.

"After that, we'll switch to a once-a-month schedule through April," Scott said. "We hope to invite some of the better fighters from around the country but most of the shows will feature the talent we have in Michigan and nearby Canada."

"We've been very satisfied with the acceptance given our shows so far. We feel we can continue to provide the type of show the boxing fans in the area want to see," Scott added.

After winning only 9 of their first 32 games last spring the Pittsburgh Pirates reeled off 12 straight victories. They climbed from 10th place to seventh and finished third, seven games out.

Boyle Compares Owners-Renters

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments of a pavement Plato:

The only sure way to avoid slavery in a civilized world is to avoid owning things.

The less a man owns the freer he can live.

Modern man has been over-sold on the prestige of ownership and the supposed security it brings, and there are signs he is in rebellion against it.

It can be argued that the only things worth owning today, aside from personal clothing and a few souvenirs, are a good credit rating and your own soul. Ownership of anything else puts you in bondage, sometimes for life.

The pleasures of owning things are far outweighed by the pleasures of not owning things.

Man is divided into two types — the owner and the renter. Show me an owner and I'll show you a fearful, burdened man. Show me a renter, and I'll show you a liberated man.

The man who thinks he owns things is kidding himself. They own him. He is their slave.

If a man owns a home, that is where he must live, no matter how he may come to hate his neighbors. He fights crabs and termites, worries about the vagaries of hurricanes and tax assessors. Everything is a possible threat to the value of his property.

He owns the phonograph records and paintings in his own home, those are the ones he must listen to or look at, though in time they may bore him utterly.

If he owns his car, that is the kind of car he must drive until he can afford a new one. He must insure it, paint it, buy it a license, protect its fenders from scratches and keep it in repair. It is as much trouble as having a child — except that he doesn't have to fret about sending it through college.

Now let us consider the happy renter.

If the neighborhood he lives in runs down, he can pack up and move away. As a matter of fact, he can wreck the neighborhood himself, if he feels like it, and then move away.

Every weekend he can rent a different model car, and if it breaks down he can pocket the key, go back to the agency and rent another. Upkeep problems don't annoy him.

Does his wife want to stun the other guests at a fancy dress ball? Well, what if she doesn't own a diamond necklace? He can rent one for the evening, and if thieves steal it, what does he care? It doesn't belong to him. He's not out of pocket.

Yep, the more you analyze the so-called joys of ownership the more you realize they may be largely spurious.

An acre is 160 square rods in square measure.

September Draft Call Is Reduced By Nearly 1,000

LANSING (AP) — Selective Service has asked Michigan local boards to deliver 2,325 young men for induction into the Army in September, down nearly 1,000 from the August call of 3,430.

Col Arthur Holmes, State Selective Service director, said it was expected the bulk of the call will be filled with registrants aged 19 and 20.

Where needed, he said, local boards have been authorized to call childless men married before Aug. 26, 1965.

Holmes said 6,862 men would be called for preinduction physical examinations in September.
